

Mayor Carl T. Langford Park

We are the best kept secret in downtown Orlando. Mayor Carl T. Langford Park features a shady oasis of mature oaks, wide sidewalks, green lawns, birds, butterflies and plenty of room for the kids to play. Young children will love the swinging bridge over the creek and the playground. There are a great deal of year-round educational and fun nature programs offered in our beautiful recreation center. We offer a yearly summer art camp, as well as family and corporate picnics at a reasonable rate. Mayor Carl T. Langford Park is a beautiful place to have a quaint wedding ceremony at an affordable rate. Serenading us with folk tunes our friends from Central Florida Folk, Inc. perform the second Sunday of every month through fall and spring.

Dickson Azalea Park

Come experience a walk through time as you meander along Fern Creek in historic Dickson Azalea Park located across the street from the City of Orlando's Mayor Carl T. Langford Park. The Washington Street bridge was constructed in 1926 and is reflective of many bridges found in South Florida. The lush landscaping, singing birds and flowing water are a treat to many visitors. This park is an oasis for those needing a quiet place to eat lunch today or to reflect on when this area was a watering hole years ago for cattle ranchers to quench the thirst of their cattle in fern creek. The dragonflies, shady trees and quietness of Dickson Azalea Park are a must see for people of all ages to experience.
